HAVANA, June 15 .- (UP)-Prestdent Carlos Mendieta narrowly escaped death today when an assassin ossed a bomb into a luncheon party across the harbor, killing two persons and wounding several others.

The president was among the casalties, suffering a slight injury to his left hand when struck by a flying fragment.

The dead were Lieutenant Manuel Poloman and Manuel Matis Tapia, a Sailor Blocks Charge.

Tapia, standing directly behind the president in the hall, was killed instantly. Witnesses said the fact he was between Mendieta and the bomb, on a staircase three feet from the speaker's table, saved the president's life.

President Mendieta appeared unshaken by his narrow escape. He received correspondents in his private our at the palace, joking with Batista and members of his cabinet.

This was taken to mean that the country must return to normalcy.

by the president.

The measure which the administration hurriedly whipped together to head off the strike also proposed a presidential board to investigate and arbitrate disputes, but it did not go as far on the controversial employe organization question.

Green urged informally, it was understood, that a strike be deferred until at least June 30 pending develop-that might arise before congress returns next January.

The bill was the last appropriation measure of the session. It brought the session's total appropriations to more than $5,000,000,000, equal to $40 for every person in the country.

Division of Funds.

The hige fund, approved by the senate without a record vote, is divided as follows in round numbers:

CLEVELAND, June 15.—(P)—The second oldest human operation, whose scars are found on Egyptian mumies, is on its way to retirement and replacement by a painless diet announced today to the closing session of the American Medical Association.

The new diet is not announced as a cure, despite the fact that it has been in use on human beings at the Cleveland clinic for two years, with a large measure of success. Two years is regarded as medically too short for "definite and final conclusions."

Charles C. Higgins, M. D., of the clinic, made the report. The idea came from experiments on albino rats. Diets deficient in vitamin A produced the stones in these animals. Rich vitamin A feeding, particularly with cod liver oil, dissolved the stones. Eighteen human beings have taken

Homes to Cost From $750 to $2,500 GOVERNOR TO SPEAK Are Planned for Georgia Farmers

ATHENS, Ga., June 15.—g—Plans for attractive farm homes ranging in cost from $750 to $2,500 have been drawn by the department of agricultural engineering at the University of Georgia in conjunction with the rural housing survey made in 16 Georgia counties.

Similar work has been done in 18 states and the bureau of agricultural engineering of the United States department of agriculture will publish a bulletin using about 30 or 40. The work done at the university has been simple for the living room space with a dining area at one end and provision for a bed if desired. The unit would not cost more than $750, figured on NRA wage and cost scales, and a scheme of possible future additions is included.

A larger home, consisting of a living and dining room combined, two bedrooms, kitchen and bathroom was designed to be built for $2,500. It makes provision for central heating, complete electric wiring system and screened windows.

NRA IS PERMANENT, SPEAKER SAYS HERE

A "down-to-the-minute" discussion of the national recovery administration was provided Atlanta businessmen and members of the Chamber of Commerce in an address Friday by George P. Ellis, president of the American Society of Certified Public Accountants. The meeting was at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Whether the nation likes it or not, Ellis said, there is a very definite element of permanence about NRA which must be taken into account in all future business undertakings.

New Dry Resolution Offered by Sheppard

WASHINGTON, June 15—(UP)
Senator Morris Sheppard, democrat, Texas, tonight introduced a resolution to repeal the twenty-first amendment to the constitution, which scrapped national prohibition.
Sheppard, life-long dry advocate and "father" of the eighteenth amendment, suggested instead a more flexible amendment which would give the government power to regulate the liquor business but not make it compulsory.

This is a distinction well merited by the young southern boy, who has been in Paris but slightly more than a year, having been sent here on a two-year scholarship from the Art Institute of Chicago.

"The scholarship was a $2,500 one and scheduled to last two years," he told the United Press.in an exclusive interview in his Paris studio, "but when the dollar went down the amount diminished so rapidly that I had just reached the end of my funds and had actually booked passage for my return to America when my work was-suddenly recognized. Julian's paintings had a literary debut before they were exhibited anywhere in Paris. Lucien Fabre, the writer, became interested in his work and assembled a number of his literary finally to also how they could writer, became interested in his work and assembled a number of his literary friends to plan how they could discuss it in a way to provoke the interest of art enthusiasts. Their efforts were so successful that within a few days the owners of a number of art galleries sought him out and asked permission to hang several of his canvases for exhibition purposes. The second exhibition of paintings staged by Les Amis De L'Art Contemporian and organized by Mrs. John W. Garrett and Princess Caetani De Bassiano, opened with a varied show of works by noted and less known contemporary artists. A numerous gathering of socially and artistically prominent personages attended the preview with intent to admire the collection of interesting Derain works assembled by Mrs. Garrett.

The recognition and well-earned praise received by young Binford since this exhibition is considered to place him in the front ranks of "artists of the future," and his success in Paris seems to be rather definitely assured.

On June 20 Binford will exhibit, by request at a private gallery, about 20 paintings selected from among his works of the past year.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

CONGRESS WASHINGTON, June 15 .- Personal relations between the White House and a number of democratic congressmen are in need of mending.

No one says much about it, but it explains a lot of the inside troubles the administration has been having with its legislative program during the closing days.

There was something of that element in the difficulties experienced with Chairman Smith, of the senate agriculture committee, and Chairman Steagall, of the house banking committee, over the Tugwell nomination and the housing bill.

Ordinarily, the chairman of the senate agriculture committee is a fairly big shot as regards agricultural policies. That has not been so since Smith became chairman. The original AAA bills were introduced and championed by Floor Leader Robinson and others last

Then, in this session, along came the cotton bill. If there is one thing Senator Smith is more interested in than patronage, it is cotton. His nickname is "Cotton Ed," But, when the latest AAA cotton bill was proposed, it was not Smith, but Senator Bankhead, who undertook the leadership for the administration.

Mr. Steagall has had almost the same experience as chairman of the house banking committee. Speaker Rainey went out of his to keep several administration bills from falling into Mr. Steagall's hands early in the session.

REASONS There are two sides to this story, as to all others. The administration boys say privately that Messrs. Smith and Steagall were, at heart, opposed to administration principles on agriculture and banking, and that the administration wanted its bills handled by its friends.

That may be, but the result is that no one can expect Messrs. Smith and Steagall to do or die for the administration

NRA BIRTHDAY There is no need to tell how good or bad the NRA is on its first birthday. General Johnson and Clarence Darrow will attend to that. What they will not tell is how big it is. No figures have ever been given out, but you can get them from the right parties.

These show that NRA population has jumped to 3,000. It has its own postoffice, telegraph office, railroad ticket office and publishes its own daily newspaper. Last month its wage bill was over half a million dollars. It has two huge floors of the Commerce building and overflows into eight other office buildings. Its telephone directory lists 2,600 extensions, and it has two private wires to New York. Every day it gets 4,000 letters and mails 6,000. Almost everything NRA says or does has to be broadcast in black and white, so it has a mimeograph plant consisting of 15 mimeograph presses and 16 multigraph presses. On an average day, 325,000 sheets pass through these presses. That comes to about three tons of paper a week just for mimeographing.

CODES NRA officials have held 652 public code hearings. So far, there are 1,230 codes. Of these, 461 have been approved and 769 hope to be. These are only the big national codes. The smaller local codes run into the thousands.

Sometimes the NRA gets so tangled up in its own intricacies that even its corps of 125 lawyers cannot straighten things out.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

(Copyright, 1934, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.) HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 15.—Night-time Hollywood came out into the broad light of noon when excitement over the Max Baer-Primo Carnera fight kept impatient boys and girls on the qui vive.

Our most noted luncheon spot displayed unusual activity. Gentlemen in checkered suits, with pink linen shirts, roved amiably among the tables. There was a deal of "hey, kid," and "H'lo, Charlie," and, for the first time in our gelatine history, our smart luncheon spot threatened to become alcoholic in tempo. Head waiters hovered nervously around and more ers hovered nervously around and more than one sigh of relief was drawn when the boys with the pleated backs to their tweed suits took themselves off, finally, at the approach of 3

Father's Day

Editor Constitution: Since the beautiful custom started some years ago, to celebrate the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day, someone has and since the second Sunday in the sec May as Mother's Day, someone has decided, and rightly so, that father must not be overlooked nor neglected; and so on June 17, or the third Sunday in June, we pay tribute to father, the head of the home.

For centuries poets have written, composers have set to inspiring music, and the world has told and sung the glories of the love of mother. This does not mean that we have loved and the world has told and sung the glories of the love of mother. This does not mean that we have loved father less, but somehow father has remained in the background. We have been a little shy about mentioning father in our tributes; in fact, father has been just a little embarrassed by all this show of emotion.

For 364 days in the year, we take father pretty much for granted. Father pays the bills. Sometimes we even let father dry the dishes, but he usually breaks a few, so we send him back to read his paper. If one of the children hasn't behaved so well, maybe father is asked to talk to Willie about the way he has been going on. All these and a shousand other details, from cutting the grass on the lawn to worrying about the mortgage—these are father's duties, and nobody seems to worry over the fact that he does them, and does them well. Mother attends to everything else, and so the world goes on.

On Father's Day, however, we find an opportunity to tell father that we know all about these things; that we want to share his worries, and we want to share his worries, and

The failure of France to hand over the $59,000,218.57 due today left her $141,093.759.44 in arrears, and it was held in some quarters that four successive defaults could mean nothing more than that the debt question is as dead as if the obligations had been formally cancelled.

Iowa officers, however, relinquished their claims in order that he could be returned to Texas to face the more serious charges.

He is wanted especially in Texas for the murder of Major Crowson, penitentiary guard who was killed when Palmer, Raymond Hamilton and several other prisoners escaped from a prison farm January 16 in a raid engineered by Clyde Barrow, slain bandit. Hamilton was convicted and given the death penalty this week for the Crowson killing.

The three kidnap victims—Al Schultze, secretary-treasurer of the Davenport Baseball Club; Elmer Schleuter, Davenport policeman, and Dr. W. D. Fitch, Walcott, Iowa, veterinarian—were freed by Palmer here early today after being held prisoners during an 18-hour drive over a circuitous route from Davenport.

During the ride, made in Dr. Fitch's commandeered coupe, Palmer talked of his hate for police, but Palmer took approximately $135 from Dr. Fitch, $93 from Schultze and $1 from Schleuter. He overlooked $300 the veterinarian carried.

STAGE WILL RECLAIM LIBBY HOLMAN TODAY

Widow of Smith Reynolds Returns in Dramatics, Not Torch Songs.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—(P)—
Mrs. Elizabeth Holman Reynolds returns to the stage tomorrow night—a stage not precisely the same that made Libby Holman famous; nor a role like those of yesteryear, when she "wowed 'em' with torch songs.

Libby is making her bow in serious dramadics. It is her first stage appearance since she became a central figure in a series of occurrences that included the death of her husband, Smith Reynolds, tobacco fortune heir.

The scene of Libby's emergence from private life is the Hedgerow playhouse, modest home of one of the country's surviving repertory theaters, nestled in Rose Valley, a 10-mile jaunt from this city.

Her vehicle is the Spanish play, Sierra's "Spring in Autumu," but she will have neither a starring role nor abge audience, both of which are just a few of the things to which she had been accustomed.

Libby will appear as Pura, the maid to an opera singer. If there's a full house, only 168 seated patrons of the Hedgerow players will be looking on.

As Pura, the erstwhile torch singer invokes song in nothing more than a coming infliction of the original labor bill, and Donald Richberg, general counsel of NRA.

trons of the Hedgerow players will be looking on.

As Pura, the erstwhile torch singer invokes song in nothing more than a comic infitation of her prima donna mistress, who is Miriam Phillips. She really doesn't sing at all.

"Spring in Autumn," translated by Nena Delmente, marks the 105th repertory production at Hedgerow. Thirty-five of these plays are on the active list. Libby appears in the same role Monday night and then remains on the sidelines until June 26, when the play will be presented again.

Two weeks hence, on June 30, will see the former Miss Holman appearing in the world premier of Sherwood Anderson's "Winesburg, Ohio," a play he adapted from his own book. She will play Belle Carpenter, described as "one of the important roles."

Libby has been devoting herself to the drama since last December. She and her 17-month-old son have been making their home with a friend in Montchanin. Del. Libby has reade

ON LABOR BILL ISSUE

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)

President Roosevelt's proposals for new power to cope with threatened industrial strife formally were introduced in congress late today and ticketed for quick action.

Responding to the demand from the White House for action on labor legislation before adjournment, leaders of both houses introduced a joint resolution which would give the chief executive authority to make a board or boards to conciliate and mediate disputes for one year.

Working with record speed, the committee on labor, to which the substitute labor proposal was submitted, met after the measure had been introduced and reported it favorably to the senate tonight.

The bid of a suit in which a player

The opponents were supposed to assume because a player had made a bid in the suit, that he had made a bid in the suit, that he held strength in it, and hence to refrain from leading it under any circumstances. However, experience is a severe teacher and when the "fancy" bidders had tried this trick a number of times, they found that it was reacting on them and that opponents were more likely to lead a suit which had been bid than one which had not. As a result the bid for a time lost its popularity and anyone using lost its popularity and anyone using it was quite likely to find it a losing venture. However, if one has a proper change of pace, there is no question that occasionally such a bid question that occasionally such a bid

A young matron who helps to earn the living of her family thought that the married people who had to fight for a living didn't have time to think whether or not they had kept their illusions. "Illusions are luxuries for the idle rich," she continued, "we middle class people get married, work hard, live economically and make the best of it, good or bad. We don't think of divorce. If we were financially independent of each other and could do as we pleased we too would probably have dissension that ended in divorce."

A wife and mother of the leisure class was not sure that the judge's recipe was altogether practical but she was sure that it is the wife who holds the fate of marriage in her hands: "So long as a woman continues to please her husband so long will he regard the marriage as continuation of love and courtship. According to his nature she may please him by creating and maintaining a make-believe world or a comfortable, substantial home in which to live and love." Then she adds sagely "Illusions live longest in well nourished minds and bodies."

William Bartram published an account of his travels in the southeastern states in Philadelphia in 1791, following his tour which began in 1773. This account is one that should be read by every resident of this part of the nation, for it contains much that will interest and compel attention. I have lately made excursions into this volume, have become entranced with what I found there, and have reserved the volume for full reading and complete digestion as fime permits. In order to have a copy of "Bartram's Travels" it is not necessary for you to spend the hundred or so dollars that it would doubtless take to purchase the first edition. It is available in a reprinted, unabridged edition at some thing like $2.50, though I do not recall offhand the name of the publisher. Your bookseller can tell you.

In glancing through this volume, one of the things that is most striking is the complete absence of scientific nomenclature as we know it today. One example of the complexities of the day, almost coincident with the appearance of the work of Linnaeus, is found in Bartram's description of the mallard duck, which is herewith quoted verbatim:

Nelson Gives Barons Six Hits To Win Sixth Victory, 8-1

It Was Just the Old Dempsey Formula That Max Followed

NEW YORK, June 15.—After all, it was just the old Dempsey formula that brought the heavyweight championship of the world back to America.

The greatest hitter of all time put down this simple rule for pugilistic success some years ago. He said: "You hit 'em in the belly and you hit 'em on the jaw. Then you hit 'em in the belly and you hit 'em on the jaw."

Last night with the old ticker pounding as if it would burst, with the roar of 70,000 fight-mad fans still echoing in my ears, I couldn't think of a thing. The heart wouldn't be still. It could still hear those thudding blows and see Max Baer's bloody mouth laughing and then twisting into a snarl as he tore in with those furious and almost unbelievable assaults that marked his work. And it still could see Carnera's bleeding cut face and his surprised eyes and the bewildered look in them as his big, towering body crumpled time after time.

But that had been Baer's formula. He said after the fight that Dempsey had told him what to do. It was to weave in under the long leads of the giant and hit him in the belly. And then, when the hands came down, to hit him in the jaw. And that is all he did when he was fighting. There were rounds when he clowned and let things slide. But when he went into action, he went in. He hit him in the belly and he hit him in the jaw. Prize fighting isn't a pleasant thing to see. But it is a majestic spectacle, and, I think, has something of sheer beauty in it. It has been said that nothing is really beautiful that does not shake one inside.

And a fight does that.

Carnera is in the hospital today with a badly sprained ankle and pulled leg tendons. As this is written an X-ray is being planned to determine if the ankle is fractured. Carnera thinks he got it in the first round when he was knocked down. He didn't. The ankle he has wouldn't have supported him. He got it in that last round when he was tottering and falling before the rush of the great lover from Hollywood, who was, for the moment, a man gone berserk.

It wasn't that ankle that beat Carnera. It was Max Baer recalling the advice of Dempsey. "I know, kid," he told Baer. "That's the way to fight these giants. You weave in under their long leads and hit 'em in the

You weave in under their long leads and hit 'em in the belly, and then you hit 'em in the jaw."

That's what Baer did. And it will win any fight. It isn't, perhaps, a pleasant phrase, but it is a true one. And put into action it reduced Carnera to a bleeding hulk and changed the championship.

Max Baer was yelling for cigarets and beer in his Max Baer was yelling for cigarets and beer in his dressing room after the fight. He got both.

And later, after he had kidded the commissioner who said he wasn't in shape to fight and that the finely conditioned Carnera might hurt him, he signed contracts which will bring him in thousands. I suspect a million dollars is ahead for the Hollywood lover.

him in thousands. I suspect a million dollars is ahead for the Hollywood lover.

He is 24 years old and has already earned and spent $250,00. And now he is in the really big money again.

The girls shrieked for him when he went in the ring last night. The dollies love the big fellow. The dollies are the girls who, as someone said, have hair like pine shavings and plenty of paint on their kissers. There were more boos than cheers for Maxie when he came in the ring last night. But the dollies yelled for him. Baer said today he had spent $100,000 on the girls and was, at last, through, but today he said, as they were taking his picture on a hotel roof, "Who is that goodlooking blonde over there?" The girl, a guest at the hotel. Babe Ruth is all men in the minors, Just as he looking blonde over there?" The girl, a guest at the hotel, fled the scene before he learned her name.

He's a hitter, boys. And Carnera can't fight a lick. He is courageous, but he is no fighter. And he never has been. And I suspect, unless he tosses his chances away, that Baer will be a great champion, until someone comes along who can hit harder.

But once he goes in with that left to the body and heart and that overhand right to the jaw, there is dynamite exploding. Carnera said today that the blows seemed to dull and daze him more than hurt.

Baer was ever the actor. He wore that cream-colored bathrobe he wore when he was Steve Morgan in the picture, "The Prize Fighter and the Lady."

And once, when Carnera missed a wild swing, Baer actually put a mock look of blankness on his face and wobbled as if he were falling.

But the punch, my fellow countrymen, covers a multitude of sins.

THE CHAMPION WHO WAS.

When it was all over and Baer's hand had been held aloft and when he had raced over to yelp at the newspapermen and screamed into a microphone, I looked at Carnera.

He was stretched out on his stool. His big stomach and chest heaved. His face was bleeding from two or three cuts. On the left side of his head was a swollen spot the size of an egg.

He isn't a bad fellow. He really had a pride in his title. And he was a sportsman as he knew the code. As someone said, he didn't ask to grow to be a giant and weigh 263 pounds and be pointed out as a freak.

He seemed to me to be a lonesome figure. There was a lot of pathos about him. Or so it seemed.

In his dressing room he cried and cried. Seeing a man cry is one of the most unpleasant things in the world. When a woman cries, it isn't so unusual. But to see this big fellow, his face swollen and cut, his huge arms and legs and body tired and worn, crying there with a lot of curious about him, wasn't very pleasant.

He was practically deserted. And one of the stories of today said that this morning about 2 o'clock a lonely figure came into a hotel lobby. There were no crowds, no cheers, no autograph hunters. It was Carnera limping in on his bad ankle. He got his key and went to his room. And a bellboy went up and said: "Is there anything I can do, Mr. Carnera?" And Carnera sobbed again. Someone had asked to do something for him.

"Well, I don't know. But I always liked the giant from Sequals,

I think it is a good thing he is out of the game. Because he isn't a fighter and never was one. There isn't anything in his record that makes him appear as one. But always he was a mystery. One could never dissipate the idea that some day he might learn to use all that tremendous strength. And be-

All-Atlanta Final Slated at Biltmore Courts Beginning at 3:15 O'Clock.

By Jack Troy.

Billy Reese, city and Georgia cham-pion, and Bryan Grant, the midget fireball who occasionally is upset by such boys as Frank X. Shields, Lester Stoefen, George Lott and others, meet today at 3:15 p/m. in another battle of Atlanta which is to be the finals of the nen's singles of the 49th southern tennis tournament at the Biltmore club.

Reese, who repeatedly has said he is out to get Grant, his famous fellow townsman, reiterated his intentions after he had eliminated John Mc-Diarmid, Texas star seeded No. 2, in a great five-set semi-finals match yesterday afternoon.
"Well, the grudge match is assured now." said Billy, "And you can say for me again that I am out to get Grant."

GREAT VICTORY.

Reese's victory over McDiarmid was the greatest of his tennis career. The Georgia Tech captain, who looks to be as good a bet as any to win the national intercollegiate this year, fought a great uphill battle.

The scores were 11-9, 1-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

McDiarmid caught a cramp in his right hand and leg in the last set and was obviously hampered. But he and was obviously hambered. But he kept fighting. Hard-pounding gentlemen, these. And it so happened that Reese was able to pound the longest. McDiarmid was a finalist last year. Previously he had eliminated Grant the national clay courts champion-

Wonder What Carnera Thought About When This Was Made?

A right-hand smash sent Primo Carnera to the floor in the first round of the campionship bout at Madison Square Garden bowl Thursday. The first round produced more action than has been witnessed in a title fight since Dempsey and Willard battled at Toledo. Baer knocked Carnera down three times in the first round and this photo shows the Italian giant on the resin-covered floor. Many experts claim that the Baer-Carnera was the greatest of the present-day title fights because of the action and 11 knockdowns scored by Baer, the new champion of the world. Referee Donovan, who was the target of many writers for his unexplained action in the tenth round, is shown at the left. Donovan apparently tried to stop the fight in the tenth but the bell saved

Mr. Clyde (Deerfoot) Milan, who is now in our midst with his Birmingham Barons, has, as usual, some highly interesting comments to make on the Southern league baseball race.

Being down in the second division does not prevent Clyde from being a most discerning baseball student. In fact, he is one of the best baseball men in the minors, just as he was one of the game's greatest outfielders during the 16 years he was with Washington's Senators.

"Your Atlanta club," says Mr. Milan, "seems to be the most improved ball club in the league over last year and is probably the best balanced club right now, although it hasn't quite the power that the

When the Cracker officials went shopping for a pitcher back in early May and bought Lynn Birchard Nelson, 27-year-old right-hander, from the Chicago Cubs, they did the best bit of bargaining they have done in many a day.

Just when spirits were sagging and the fans were morose and disconsolate over losing that tough one Thursday night, the little Fargo fusileer walked out to the mound yesterday to the accompaniment of scattered cheers, and gave the Birmingham Barons just six hits, while cashing in his sixth victory in exactly six starts he has made since joining Atlanta.

One of his victories came in the relief role and he lost one game.

CRACKERS AROUSED.

CRACKERS AROUSED.

The Crackers, thoroughly imbed with Nelson's spirit, went out and clubbed Clarence Griffin, an old jinx, from the hill and proceeded to coast to an 8-1 victory to square the series.

Manager Spencer Abbott, himself sorely tested by the shoddy pitching he had to look at Thursday night, decided at the last minute to trust things to Nelson, who hasn't worked since last Sunday.

Nelson, who not only does a masterful job in the box but usually does his share of the hitting as well, contributed a double and single to the Cracker offensive against Griffin and White, the Atlanta boy, who relieved him.

white, the Atlanta boy, who reneved him.

And he closed the Barons out by fanning Redmond, a pinch hitter, last man up in the ninth, after McKee had made that spectacular one-handed stab of Kane's drive.

Just why the Cubs chose to let a man like Nelson languish on the bench for the better part of five years, no one can figure out. Certainly he is as good as a lot of pitchers who are starting regularly in the Nation-

Oana Possesses Unusual Record

An unusual record for driving in runs is possessed by Prince Henry Oana, the new centerfielder of the Crackers.

In 28 games he has played with Atlanta since joining the club, the prince has batted in 35 runs—only three behind the 38 driven in by Duck McKee and Harry Taylor in 55 games.

It shows that Oana is coming through in the pinch and explains why he batted in 163 runs a season on the coast. His average also climbed above .300 yesterday.

Baer is champion. The crowd goes for the man with the punch in both fists. And Baer has it. When he comes in with that leering snarl and both fists begin exploding—something is going to drop.

IT WAS 11 ROUNDS.

Well, clients, it isn't long before time to get the car and go out to get the Atlanta plane out of the Newark airport. I've been waiting all day for those fellows who wired me about that Baer selection to win by a knockout in eight rounds to wire

At any rate, the old boy is on the way home, and how was I to know that Baer would stop in the fifth, when he had Carnera out, and stopped his attack to laugh at the reeling giant? That wouldn't have been rather good. Five from eight leaves three. But, anyhow, 11 rounds wasn't bad. It's easier, coming home

SIX ATLANTANS SEEK SOUTHERN GOLF LAURELS

Hughes, Ballenger, Sage, Gill, Rainwater Brothers To Play at New Orleans

By Roy White.

Julius Hughes, city amateur and open golf champion; Dr. E. G. Ballenger Jr. and Dan Sage Jr. will leave this morning for New Otleans, La., where they will participate in the annual southern amateur tournament next week.

Hughes won the qualifying medal in the southern last year on the Fact.

Hughes won the qualifying medal in the southern last year on the East Lake course and has been playing consistently since that time. He won the city title last year and recently added the city open crown to his collection. Hughes is the city's chief hope to return the title here. S. E. Gill and Crawford and Brown Rainwater are the other entries from Atlanta. Gill will likely leave Sunday, while Crawford and Brown left earlier in the week to get in a few days of practice.

CAPITAL CITY.

Qualifying rounds for the governing board trophy tournament for Capital City players will end this afternoon. No exceptionally good scores have been turned in since the qualifying opened on Wednesday, but a majority of the club's best players will qualify today.

Two matches will be played each week, following the qualifying round and handicaps will apply in every flight in each match. MUNICIPAL TOURNEY.

Atlanta's municipal golfers will con-tinue to qualify today and Sunday for the city championship. The tourney is being played over the Bobby Jones municipal course and will be a 36-hole medal affair. The winner of the city tourney will given a trip to the national pub-c links championship at Pittsburgh, Pa.. in August.

The tourney was opened on Thursday and will continue through Sunday, and will continue tarough Sun-day.
Green fees through Friday were waived but those who play today and Sunday will have to pay the regular week-end fees.

EAST LAKE.

Another of the regular one-day blind bogey tournaments for members of the East Lake club will be played this afternoon on the two courses.

The players can select their own handicans within certain limits, and handicaps within certain limits and also can choose either of the courses

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP) Stocks reverted to a display of quiet strength today, as the market continued to move in the narrow range it has occupied the past week.

Improvement in the tone of the market was ascribed chiefly to a brighter outlook for settlement of the steel labor controversy. United Steel, Bethlehem Steel and National Steel 3 Assd Dry Gds ... 38 Atch T&SF ... 16 Atl Cst Line ... 16 Atl Refin (1) ... 1 Atlas Pow (1g) ... 1 Atlas Pow pf (6) 42 Aubarn Auto ... 2 Aust Nich ... 6 Aviation Corp ... rallied for net gains of more than a point on news that President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, had proposed at least a 10-day postponement of the threatened strike.

The German debt moratorium had little effect upon speculative markets, although it focused attention on the German financial situation and brought additional liquidation into reich bonds, both private and government issues.

Sales in the stock exchange totaled 735,583 shares compared with 632,486

The market recovered about what it lost in the preceding session. The Standard Statistics Company average of 90 stocks rose 1.4 points to 81.4. The market has moved within a range of about 2 points since a sharp rally topped off last Saturday.

topped off last Saturday.

Motor shares rose with the market, despite fear that a price-cut announced by Ford on some models would intensify competition in the industry and reduce profit-margins. Auburn steadied and finished fractionally higher after touching a new 1934 low. General Motors closed a point higher.

American Smelting, Dome Mines, Howe Sound, United States Smelting and other metal shares rose 1 to 3 points. Such issues as American Can. and other metal shares rose 1 to 3 points. Such issues as American Can. American Telephone, Santa Fe, General Electric, New York Central. Standard Oil of New Jersey and Pennsylvania Railroad sold fractionally to about a point higher.

while stocks prolonged their backing and filling within narrow limits, domestic bonds extended a slow upward movement, with many high grade issues at peak levels for the year. Commodities were mixed. Wheat allied to close 1-4 to 3-4 of a cent rallied to close 1-4 to 3-4 of a cent higher but corn dipped fractionally. Cotton finished 15 cents a bale lower to 5 cents higher. Rubber, hides and sugar were firm. The German mark rallied in foreign exchange dealings.

Freight carloadings for the week ended June 9 were up 37,024 to 615, 565 and 46,408 ahead of last year. The gain was less than usual after the Memorial Day week.

Alkali Firm Expected To Build Plant in South

NEW YORK, June 15.—(P)—It was learned from reliable sources to-day that the Solvay Process Company will build a completely integrated alkali plant on river front property at Baton Rouge, La.

For several years the company was said to have had the erection of a southern plant under consideration as a means of serving more efficiently its customers in that territory, and exhausting studies of the serving serving the serving serving the serving exhaustive studies of various sites finally culminated in the selection of the Crescent state capital.

The Baton Rouge property will permit direct shipment by ocean vessels, as well as by rail, if it is erected. Part of the plant's output will probably move by water to Hopewell, Va., to supply an affiliated company.

The Solvay Company is the largest producer of alkalis in the world. It was the first to produce soda ash in this country, and operates plants at Syracuse, N. Y., and Detroit.

- D NEW YORK. June 15.—(UP)—
The workings of 1934 legislation commanded chief interest among the "Wall Street" crowd tonight.

At almost every turn in the financial district there is a legislative problem, ranging from bank deposits to the amount of margin necessary to buy 10 shares of stock. As a consequence trading activities continue dull.

In the forefront of legislative arch.

In the forefront of legislative prob-

Silver trading today totaled only 14 lots—350,000 ounces—for one of 14 lots—350,000 ounces—for one of the smallest days in history as specu-lators shied away from the market in view of the recently passed silver pur-chase law.

chase law.

Several important banking houses including J. P. Morgan & Company became "banks" "inder the state authorization as they dropped securities business to operate as private banking institutions.

SECURITIES ACT.

Attorneys and brokers -red over the securities act, attempting to analyze the various clauses particularly the assortment of "enactment" dates which range to July 1, 1937, in hopes of finding cheer which will radiate trading enthusiasmin the radiate trading enthusiaem in nopes of thinding cheer which will radiate trading enthusiarm in the stock market.

With all of these problems, the stock market was almost a stepchild. True prices rose today, gains ranging to more than 3 point with the close at the highs of the day. But activity continued small, falling under three-quarters of a million shares.

In the trading group, silver furnished the most unique problem today. Up to 2 p. m. only three lots had been exchanged, 11 coming in the final hour. Some silver men opined that the day of speculation in this market was at an end—in view of the high taxation in the new bill—but believed prices would go up and that present silver holders might make some semblance of a market as they sold on bulges.

NO TRADING AID.

NO TRADING AID.

This situation brought no aid to a trading community already fearful of the unrestricted, so far, commodities. Tomorrow's stock market gives promise of no enlivening action for the two main problems—steel and congress adjournment—thus far are not settled. Rising prices in late truding today might possibly carry over into the opening hours tomorrow but the resistance level again is being approached and the normal last hour of trading Saturday ordinarily does not bring out any tremendous buying burst. More often there is profittaking.

burst. More often there is profittaking.

Wall Street did get a little cheer from the steel workers' union convention in Pittsburgh today with President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, suggesting an arbitration plan. But until the strike definitely is called off and holidays eliminated, there will be no great enthusiasm. On the matter of congress adjournment, reports that legislates eliminated, there will be no great en-thusiasm. On the matter of congress adjournment, reports that legislators feared the Saturday adjournment might be possible was far from encouraging.

Some cheer for the markets came Some cheer for the markets came in the advance in swigar prices 'oday and the resultant gains in sugar company stocks on the "big board"; reports of western railroad car loadings improvement expectations on basis of improvement expectations on basis of better grain crops than last year in some sections; continued views that further inflation is a matter of only a few weeks; continued strength in bonds. 2 Montr LH&P (1½) market today. Prime investment loans and speculative domestic corporate bonds were higher, with few exceptions, and the government list was steady, but trading was less active.

Transfers totaled $11.861,000 par value, compared with $17.306,000 on Thursday, and the index of 60 domestic corporate bonds prepared by Standard Statistics Company advanced one-tenth of a point to 86.5. The turnover in government issues totaled $2.700,000 compared with $8,100,000 yesterday.

The turnover in government issues totaled $2.700.000 compared with $8.700.000 yesterday.

The further sinking of German bonds was said by brokers to be due to moratorium developments, especially the steps taken by the British government to safeguard its interests in German transfers and credits in England. Dawes 7s led the decline with a drop of nearly 2 points. The Young 5 1-2s closed unchanged at 37 3-4 after sinking to 36 1-8 in earlier dealings. A sharp drop in Italian 7s, which lost 3 1-4 points, coincided with the meeting between the heads of the German and Italian governments for private talks.

New high marks for the past year or longer were reached by a number of domestic high grade investment bonds, including American Telephone sinking funds 5s, Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 5s, and Santa Fe adjustment 4s.

al of speculative buying lifted wheat values at the last today after temporary losses had replaced early gains. The buying which went hand in hand with the late rally of the wheat market was attributed to trade belief that liquidation on the part of weak holders had been completed, and that holders had been completed, and that fresh upturns of prices were to be expected. Particular significance was attached to announcement that Germany had prohibited exports of breadstuffs, and it was contended that this action emphasized likelihood of increased European demand for wheat because of adverse crop conditions throughout the Danube region, as well as in Italy and France.

Wheat closed firm. 1-4 to 3-4 above yesterday's finish, corn 1-4 to 3-4 down, oats unchanged to 3-8 higher, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents off.

In the corn market, reports of beneficial rains over much of the corn belt acted as more than a counterbalance for chinch bug damage advices. Oats followed wheat rather than corn, despite messages saying Argentina had shipped 138,000 bushels of oats to the United States.

Provisions averaged lower, responsive to the course of hog values,

Recovery Progress 'Checked,' WEATHER OUTLOOK Says Col. Leonard P. Ayres

CLEVELAND, June 15.—(P)—The is slight, and it would not have seprogress of recovery has been "checked by reversal," says Colonel Leonard P. Arres, economist, for the "third time since the bottom of the depression."

He declared in the monthly business sellultin published by the Cleveland Trust Company, of which he is vice president, that "business activity and industrial production have definitely slowed down during the past month."

Colonel Ayres named three factors needed for the absorption of unemployment—increased exports, expanded building construction and heavier output of durable goods financed by new securities—and asserted these developments cannot be expected soon. Discussing the trend of recovery, he said "the first upturn from the bottom began in the spring of 1933 and also continued during construction, a very large in group of the spring of 1933 and also continued during construction, a very large in continued four months.

"The next advance began in the spring of 1933 and also continued during four months. This latest upward movement started last December and continued four months, and now production has turned downward again without equalling the volume reached last year.

Seasonal Trade Drop Said Less Pronounced

NEW YORK, June 15 -(A)-The seasonal recession in trade has been less pronounced than it was in some of the years immediately preceding, and in most divisions sufficient momentum has been gained to prevent a serious interruption of the recovery movement, said Dun & Bradstreet today in the weekly trade re-been more definitely ascertained.

"Gains in retail sales for the week, which amounted to 6 to 8 per cent and 10 to 15 per cent over the total for the corresponding week of 1933, based on the reports from all parts of the country, were contributed almost entirely by industrial centers and the farm areas in the south and south.

TARZAN AND THE CITY OF GOLD No. 72

"I was frightened," said the Queen as, forgetting royal dignity, she walked through the palace, close to Tarzan's side. "Not often is Nemone frightened by another's peril, but when I saw you leap into the arena with the lion my heart stood still. Why did you do it, Tarzan?"

"I was disgusted with what I saw," replied the ape-man, shortly. "Disgusted! What do you mean?" Nemone asked. "The cowardliness of the authority that would permit an utterly defenseless man to be forced into an arena with a lion," explained Tarzan candidly.

Nemone flushed. "You know that that authority is I," she said coldly. "Of course I know it," replied the ape-man, "but that only renders it the more odious." "Explain yourself!" she snapped. "Are you trying to drive me beyond all patience? Take Signal All Changes.

The safe driver gives proper indication and signals when turning, moving from one lane to the other or pulling from the curb. When about to turn he slows down, pulls over to the right or left lane, and gives the proper hand signal. The safe driver always indicates by these actions that he is going to change his course from the straight path.

TODAY'S SHORT STORY MARY LOU

Mary Tarrant Lost Her Child in a Prairie Fire, But She Refused to Believe Her Dead in Face of Evidence. By MAUDE L. ROBINSON.

She never had talked much, billows of smoke heaven high, shot with licking tongues of flame.

Mary Tarrant, in the new little frame house, had seen it come, sniffed its acrid odor, turned about in terror in her shining kitchen. John Tarrant, rushing back from the wheatfield, fell through the open door breathless.

"Not a minute to wait!", he cried "No, the side of the prairie fire. The few and distant neighbors scattered over the Dakota prairie said she was queer. She never talked much, only brooded. "Try and put it from your mind, to please me," John often asked. "It was fate. Our little girl is at rest—and safe."

Mary would gaze at his distance the day of the prairie fire. The few and distance is a prairie said she was queer. She never talked much, only brooded. "Try and put it from your mind, to please me," John often asked. "It was fate. Our little girl is at rest—and safe."

Remembering what had been behind them on that mad drive John Tarrant would set his jaw and go back to his fields. Life was not easy for him either.

The years went by. They prospered, farms multiplied. Nearest them lived the Brownings, and that was the only place where Mary went on rare visits that she seemed to feel natural and at home. Perhaps it was because Mrs. Browning let her talk about Mary Lou, never argued when she spoke of her child as living.

"Humor her," Browning advised him either. "Humor her." Browning advised his wife. "If she gets any comfort out of the idea, poor soul! I'm glad all of ours are boys, strong and husky!" Browning advised
